NEGROES WARNED TO LEAVE WEST NEWTON

Any of Them Who Have Not Been Residents of Town For Five Years or More Must Leave By Saturday Morning

COMPANIONS ARE IN JAIL

Reward of $1,000 Offered for Scott, Either Dead or Alive. State Police, County Detectives And Citizens Continue Search

Feeling in West Newton is at the boiling point on account of the murder of Chief of Police Rea yesterday morning. A warning was issued yesterday by the citizens that all negroes living in the town who have not been there for five years or more must leave before Saturday morning or they will be helped out of town.

A detachment of the State Police, aided by County Detectives and practically every man, woman and child of the town have been searching every nook and corner of the town and surrounding country ever since early yesterday morning.

Tuesday afternoon the two women and the man who were companions of James Scott, who is accused of shooting Rea, were put through the third degree by county authorities but little was learned from them. They were taken to Greensburg last night and lodged in the county jail. The fact that Scott was from Lynchburg, Va., and that he had been living near West Newton with the colored woman who was his companion at the time of the shooting, are about all the real facts that have been established.

Joe Davis, a colored man, who conducts a barber shop in the town was arrested yesterday afternoon, on a charge of being a suspicious person. It is claimed that Davis has made attempts since the murder to secure going that belonged to Scott. He was released on bail last night and a strict watch is being kept on his movements.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered by members of the Elks Lodge, for the capture of Scott, either dead or alive.

The high school was dismissed early yesterday afternoon and all the students joined in the search for the negro. Clubs, axes and pitchforks were carried by some, and the smaller boys shouldered their air rifles.

Funeral services will be conducted for Mr. Rea Thursday afternoon from his late home in West Newton, with interment in the West Newton cemetery.

Mr. Rea was 35 years old and is survived by his wife and one daughter, who is 11 years old. He was a member of Donora Lodge of Elks.

MUST COMPLY WITH LAW IN SALE OF VINEGAR

It is not difficult for farmers to comply with the Pennsylvania law regarding the sale of cider vinegar, providing the vinegar has been made from apple juice and contains no added water, drugs or acid, states Director James Foust, bureau of foods and chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

A farmer is required under the law to label all containers with his name and address. This may be done on any farm with a set of stencils or a card. When these requirements are fulfilled, the vinegar may be sold to the wholesale and retail trade in the state without inspection or permit of any kind.

DRY RUN ROAD MAY BE WIDENED

The matter of extending and widening the mouth of the Dry Run road which is a portion of the Washington pike and on the Pike's Peak Ocean-to-Ocean highway, is again being pressed. Yesterday a representative body of Monongahela citizens with H. C. Devore, chairman of the Pike's Peak Ocean-to-Ocean highway committee, here, and of other good roads associations, visited county highway authorities at Washington to discuss the matter of widening a portion of the Dry Run road near its starting point at Chess street, Monongahela. This important stretch of highway, which is the only improved route to the Washington pike, which really ends at Baidland, measures only 33 feet across at the mouth and the narrow road is considered dangerous for present-day traffic. Owing to a score of "blind" curves on the Dry Run road the risk in traveling this road either day or night is greater than on other highways. The matter of extending the Dry Run road ahead from its mouth across Chess street and a 100-foot tract of ground which belongs to the H. C. Frick interests, to meet the street car tracks was suggested by Mr. Devore some time ago, both to the city planning commission and council, but no concerted action was taken, although both bodies made record of the proposition and evidence.

Public Opinion In Grant Case Grows Stronger

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Heartened by the widespread encouragement from use of assistance from Clarence Darrow, famous attorney, Attorney Thomas E. Swanson today whipped into shape his petition to Governor Small for a pardon for Bernard Grant, poor boy from "back of the yards" sentenced to hang on October 17.

Public opinion will not stand for hanging a poor boy while rich boys are sentenced to jail for a crime much greater than this, wanson declared, showing a huge sheaf of letters, telegrams and postcards of protest. Thousands of names will accompany the pardon petition to Gov. Small. Various organizations here are circulating petitions calling on the governor to see that Grant is given the same brand of justice handed Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaire youths sentenced to life in prison for their murder of Bobby Franks.

"When the governor begins to feel the pressure of public opinion from all parts of the country, he will have no other recourse but grant my request," wanson said.

Darrow, who defended Leopold and Loeb, has promised to come here from his retreat at Charlevoix, Mich., to take up the battle for Grant. Darrow's principal argument before Justice Caverly was that his clients were too young to hang. In rendering his decision Justice Caverly said he could not impose the death penalty on boys under 21. Grant is 19.

OPEN NEW STORE THURSDAY NIGHT

The people of Charleroi and vicinity will have an opportunity Thursday evening of viewing and inspecting one of the most beautiful remodeled store fronts in the valley, when they accept the invitation extended to all to visit the new store of C. C. Baugh and Milliken, 419 McKean avenue. The store will be open from 7:30 to 10 and it is hoped that the patrons and friends of the firm will be present. Souvenirs of carnations will be given each visitor and a program of music will be presented for their entertainment.

The remodeling, recently completed, has aroused many remarks of admiration from all those who have viewed it, which work of art and beauty reflects accordingly on the firm, which instituted the change.

At great expense, the entire store front has been completely renewed. A buff brick front of two stories has replaced the old wooden front. An oriental effect has resulted from the stone copings with a relief finished in green glazed tile at the top of the building, while two French windows add considerably to the beauty of the second floor improvement. These windows will open on a balcony that will be an added feature within a few weeks, together with a marmoset canopy, 24x10 feet to be installed with art glass bearing the name of Claybaugh and Milliken on three sides.

Doing away with the stairway entrance to the apartment above, this space has been utilized in two show windows. By making the windows according to the new style, angled and narrow, gives a lobby of 15 feet. The windows, which are finished in birch hardwood, have a depth of 15 feet, an addition of 10 feet over the old windows. (Continued on page six)

Mine Rescue Workers Push Through Smoke, Flames. And Mine Gas to Reach Those Entombed In Coal Mine at Sublet

47 MEN WERE AT WORK

Ordinarily 200 Would Have Been In Mine. But on Account of Repairs, the Smaller Number Were At Work—More Thought to Be Alive

BULLETIN.

Kemmerer, Wyo., Sept. 17.—Twenty bodies have been taken from the Sublet mine of the Kemmerer Coal Company, wrecked by explosion yesterday. Twenty-three remain in the mine and it is thought some of them may be alive. Constant caving in of the shattered walls of the mine entrance keeps rescue parties in peril of their lives.

Kemmerer, Wyo., Sept. 17.—Plunging through clouds of smoke, flames, and mine gas, rescue workers pushed on early today seeking to know the fate of miners entombed in an explosion in mine Number 5 of the Kemmerer Coal Co., at Sublet.

At midnight the rescue crews brought out 11 miners, all of them dazed, but still alive. Three bodies were located but have not been removed.

Company officials said 47 men were at work in the shaft when the blast let go, closing the main entrance. They were repairmen who had started to work just a few days ago. Ordinarily a crew of about 200 is employed at the mine.

The blast occurred shortly before noon Tuesday and shook the entire community. Flames and a huge cloud of smoke poured from the mouth of the shaft. A severe storm handicapped organization of rescue crews.

First of the rescuers to go into the mine were forced to abandon their attempts owing to the fumes rolling in the shaft.

Several holes were drilled into the debris which blocked the entrance and rescue attempts were abandoned for a short period while the mine was cleared of the bulk of gas. Then a rescue crew composed mostly of miners from adjoining mines was sent in.

The eleven men brought out were found huddled together in a corner of the underground workings which had not been reached by the flames.

Mine officials felt confident that many of the men still entombed would be brought out alive.

ALLEGED PEDDLER CHASED THREE MILES

"Dope" valued at approximately $100 found in his possession when he was taken into custody by Chief of Police Albert Bakewell of West Brownsville, after an exciting chase of three miles. Arthur King aged 29, colored of West Brownsville, is in the county jail to await trial, he being unable to furnish bail in the sum of $1,500.

Chief of Police Bakewell had received a tip that King was peddling "dope" and tried to capture him as he was leaving West Brownsville, but failed to do so. Getting another lead, Chief Bakewell took up the chase and caught up with him at Centerville.

King was taken back to West Brownsville and arraigned for a hearing before Judge of the Court. C. W. Tapleton, who held him for court under $1,500 bail. In a statement to Chief of Police Bakewell, King is alleged to have stated that he was on his way to Bradock where he expected to dispose of the narcotic. He refused to make any statement as to how large an amount came into his possession.

MILLIONS OF PLEDGES TO VOTE ASSURED

Millions of pledges to vote will be obtained by the "Get-Out-the-Vote" Caravan which is to tour the state in October according to an announcement made today by Mrs. John O.
Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters.

Showers of the blank pledges will be dropped on Independence Square from naval airplanes. Co-operation of the United States Navy in this patriotic movement to increase the vote of all parties was assured to Mrs.
Charles M. Lea, director of the Caravan by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. In accordance with arrangements made by the Secretary, Charles T.
Blackburn, Lieutenant Commander of the United States Navy with headquarters at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, advised Mrs. Lea that airplanes would "fly over Independence Square at the scheduled hour of departure of the Caravan," and drop the patriotic vote pledge blanks.

"The vote pledge calls for a promise to vote for two consecutive years," explained Mrs. Lea. "Voters are called on only for the pledge to vote.
They may vote for any party or candidate they choose. It is because of the fact that the get-out-the-vote movement represents all parties and all interests that the United States government can co-operate. These pledges will be collected as the Car-van tours the State."

Mrs. John O. Miller, the state chairman, it was announced, has received a letter from Dr. Leonard P.
Fox, manager of the Research Bureau of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, announcing the cooperation of the state chamber in the "Get-out-the-Vote" campaign.

"Enclosure No. 1," wrote Dr. Fox, "is being mailed to our members today. Enclosure No. 2 will be mailed as a follow-up. This action shows cooperation of the State Chamber of Commerce in the national movement to eliminate the ballot-waster."

Enclosure No. 1 is a special message to members of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce from Alba B. Johnson, the president. This message urges employers to place before their employes full and all partisan information, supplied by the chamber, as to registration and the offices to be filled in the November election.

"The officers elected this year," wrote Mr. Johnson, "will guide your state and nation and make and administer the laws. It is your duty as a citizen not only to vote yourself but also to impress on your employee the necessity of doing likewise."

"The State Chamber's work," said Mrs. Miller, state chairman of the League, "is especially helpful and shows how employer and employee may get together on the common ground of love of country."

Enclosure No. 2 referred to by Dr.
Fox, tells of display cards urging citizens to register and vote which are being distributed by the State Chamber.

Miss Martha G. Thomas, the delegate representing the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters on the State Central "Get-out-the-Vote" Committee is sending out the call for the next meeting of that body, to be held in the League House, Philadelphia, at 10:30 a. m., August 26.

Noah's Son an Inventor

Perhaps the most primitive form of artificial light was the wax taper. In Turkey the guild of candlemakers venerate Shem, the son of Noah, as their patron saint. It was he, according to legendary history, who invented this early form of light—wax taper.

When the ark was already afloat, so the story goes, a swarm of bees settled upon the roof, the Detroit News states. Shem removed them carefully to a corner of the ark where they hived and multiplied. When finally the ark rested on Mount Ararat, Shem took some of the bees' wax, melted it in an earthen pot and into it dipped strips of wool which he probably got from the sheep (although this is not mentioned). These when cool he rolled in his hands, thus making the first candle.

Until 1908 the sultan of Turkey would permit no other artificial light than wax tapers to be burned, except in his own palace, where he had electric lights.

NATIONAL LUTHERAN CHURCH IN SOUTH AMERICA

New York, N. Y., Sept. 16.—A proposal to establish the nucleus of a National Lutheran church in South America will be submitted to the biennial convention of the United Lutheran church in America at its convention in Chicago in October.

The movement is to begin in Argentina. The first step toward it is a plan already devised for the cooperation of the two Lutheran organizations now operating in Buenos Aires and vicinity. These are the La Plata Synod of the Lutheran Church and the United Lutheran Church in America.

Heretofore, the two organizations have worked harmoniously side by side, the United Lutherans through their missionaries, of whom they have a number in and around the capital city of the Argentine.

The United Lutheran Church in America, headquarters of which are in New York, has a membership of about 1,200,000 largely in the United States and Canada. It supports two mission houses in Buenos Aires and several schools.

Its representatives have now agreed to combine their efforts in the Argentine with the La Plata Synod. This will result in expansion of Lutheran work and influence.

The movement is expected to lead to the establishment of a permanent, self-governing Lutheran church in Argentina.

Squelches Scientist

A distinguished astronomer tells of a visit paid by several young women to his observatory.

"I had done my best," he said, "to answer with credit the running fire of questions which my fair callers prop-ounded. I think I had named even the remotest constellations for them, and was congratulating myself upon the outcome, when one of the younger members of the party interjected:

"But, as it has never been proved that planets are inhabited, how do the astronomers find out their names?"

What Chrysler Engineers
Are doing for Maxwell

The engineering group who share credit for the sweeping success of the good Maxwell, have high reputations to maintain.

You will realize how much that statement means when you remember that these men designed the Chrysler Six.

It is the same group which has built into the good Maxwell, performance worthy of a car three times its price.

If you examine into the basic reasons for such performance, and for Maxwell's economical, care-free service, you discover things like these:

That both the new transmission and new rear axle are strong and rugged enough for a truck.

That the extensive use of fine bearings eliminates friction to such an extent that with one hand you can roll the car on a level floor or street.

That the heavy, perfectly balanced crankshaft floats on a film of oil maintained under force-feed pressure in its oversize bearings—thus reducing wear to the point where there is practically no need for bearing replacement.

That the release or throwout bearing of the new clutch—often a prolific cause of trouble and expense because of poor lubrication—is positively and automatically lubricated from the transmission.

That at all vital points the good Maxwell uses the same kinds of alloy and heat-treated steels employed in the costliest cars.

That in proportion to weight, it is actually stronger than cars costing two, three or even four times as much.

That the rear axle drive pinion, which bears the brunt of propelling the car, is rigidly mounted on bearings which preserve permanent alignment and quiet.

That the frame, in addition to its unusual depth of six inches is braced by six stout cross members.

Such superiority in material, in construction, in engineering design, is bringing new thousands to the conviction that the Maxwell is not only a good car, but that it is actually better than anything at anywhere near its price.

THE PEOPLE'S BULWARK.

It is a reassuring coincidence that on the same day—September 6—both the Republican and Democratic candidates for the Presidency should have spoken vigorously, without concerted understanding, for the independence of the judiciary and the integrity of the courts, as against the La Follette movement of threat to cripple the courts. As is well known, the La Follette platform proposes to give Congress the power to set aside decisions of the Supreme Court holding the constitutionality of the federal laws.

The arguments made by Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Davis were not new in idea, but there is need of vigorous reassertion whenever a representative of the La Follette view aspires to leadership and political power.

President Coolidge pointed out that an independent judiciary was perhaps America's greatest contribution to the science of government, that there must be power to interpret the Constitution, that if this power were taken from the Supreme Court it would have to be lodged in either Congress or the Executive, and that in either case the result would involve danger to the life, liberty and property of the individual. Speaking in a part of the country supposed to be receptive of La Follette propositions, Mr. Davis was equally emphatic, declaring that there must be a power to which the citizen can appeal when the precious rights accorded him by the Constitution are invaded, that the judiciary is properly that power, that the courts are the people's bulwark under the Constitution, that to remove that safeguard would expose the people to the caprice of men swayed by temporary influences, and that the capricious despotism of a tyrant of old could find its counterpart in even a modern Legislature or Congress.

CHAIN STORE EXPANSION.

The great corporations of producing industries are being rapidly followed by great combinations of distributing agencies. The smaller retail dealers are now facing the competition not only of department stores chain ten-cent stores and mail order houses, but we now have chain grocery stores, chain tobacco shops and chain drug stores, and even chain restaurants. Drugs, cigars, even clothing, dry goods and household furnishings, are being distributed more and more by million-dollar corporations of national scope. Consolidation seems to be the order of the day, cutting costs by large scale production and thus being a btle to lower prices, or some prices, with increased profit.

We read that the leading corporations in the chain grocery field operates no less than ten thousand stores in the United States, employs 65,000 men and women, did a business of $300,000,000 last year and after paying dividends to its stockholders, put aside a surplus of $6,600,000. According to report, the leading chain of drug stores did a business of $67,000,000 last year through some 300 stores in this country and controls 700 more in Great Britain. It is stated that the leading five-and-ten cent chain operates 1,260 stores and last year did a business of nearly $200,000,000. Plainly these combinations prosper greatly and the more they prosper the harder it is for the independent retail dealer to meet such organized competition. What the outcome of it all will be in a serious question.

With good reason it has been questioned whether the Federation of Labor heads can hand over the entire vote of that body to La Follette and now comes the Workers' Party of America with a denunciation of the "Lion of Wisconsin" as "Capital's tool." Whatever may be the relative numerical strength of the two bodies, it is plain that the labor vote is split in advance.

According to report the Federal Reserve Board's monthly review of business conditions just published finds "continued recession in almost every business field, with agricultural producers favored by rising prices constituting an outstanding exception to the trend." Only farmers can get much satisfaction out of that.

Some of the Germans are still looking forward to "Der Tag." One of them, Gen. von Schoenich, has just published a book entitled "The War of 1930"—which allows us only about six years more of peace.

Calvin Coolidge is so far silent about the Ku Klux Klan, but it is said that his running mate is now working up and is getting ready to make a statement on the subject.

What the World Is Doing

(As Seen by Popular Mechanics Magazine)

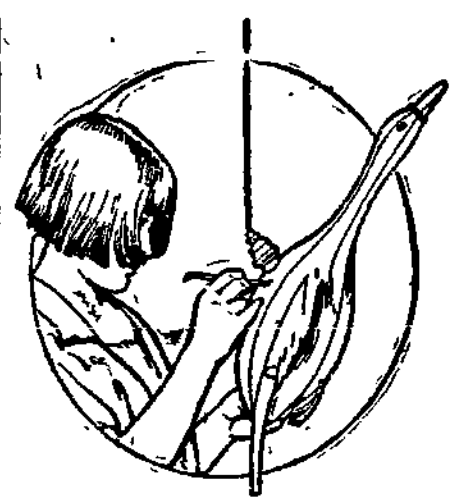

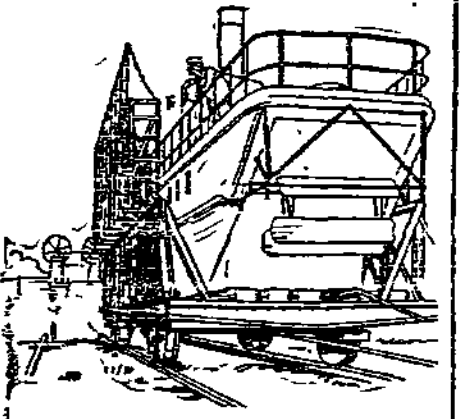

Voice Pictures as Nerve-Cure Aid

Are Tested in London

Various kinds of nervous disorders are said to be detected by the use of an instrument, invented by Prof. E. W. Scripture and tested in England, to take "pictures" of the human voice. Vibrations of tones spoken into a tube are registered in lines on a revolving drum covered with smoked paper. Persons afflicted with certain nerve diseases are said to pronounce various words in a way which produces abnormal lines on the recording mechanism, thus enabling the physician to diagnose their trouble.

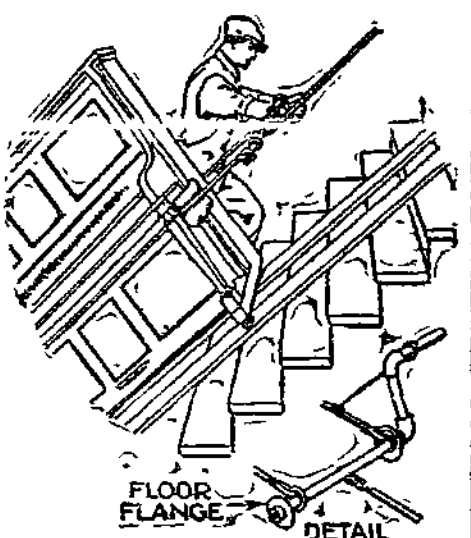

Railroad Carries Ships Overland with Passengers and Cargoes

So that vessels may carry their passengers and cargo overland between separated bodies of water, a railway ship canal, consisting of sluices, inclined planes and large, specially designed railroad flat cars, has been built in Germany. When a steamer reaches its terminal, the flat car is rolled on rails down an incline into the water and shipped underneath the boat. It is then drawn back on the plane and, while the ship is top, is transported to the next body of water into which it runs far enough to permit the vessel to float. This line was built to provide communication between East Prussia and the different bodies of water from which it has been cut off by the new divisions of territory resulting from the war.

Moving Heavy Furniture up Stairways

Pianos and other heavy objects can be moved up steep inclines, such as stairways, very easily by means of the simple device shown in the illustration. It consists of three lengths of 1 1/2-in. gaspipe, two floor flanges and two elbows, which are screwed together to form a shaft and crank. Two lengths of stout rope, one having a heavy iron ring at each end, are also provided. The rope equipped with rings is brought around the piano as shown, the rings being slipped over the shaft. Heavy pads are, of course, provided around the corners to protect the varnished surface. A 1/4-in. hole is drilled through the center of the shaft to receive an eyebolt, and one end of the second rope is tied to it, the other end being secured to some support at the top of the incline. In use, the operator moves the piano up the stairway by turning the crank. A floor flange is screwed on each end of the shaft, as shown, to prevent the rope from slipping off as it is wound on. A short length of rope near the crank holds it securely and prevents the winch from unwinding when the operator does not wish to turn it.

Giant bees of India build honeycombs that are eighteen feet high.

Lamp Shades Designed in Forms of Birds and Animals

Designed in the shape of birds and animals, shades for electric lights have been introduced in England, where it is said their odd appearance has resulted in a great demand for them. Painted in the natural hues of the subject, with the incandescent lamp inside, the shade presents a novel effect while softening the glare of the light. Of various models, they are made in such designs as wall lights.

Talking through Your Own Loud Speaker

Many radio fans are having fun talking through their own loud speakers. The trick is simple; connect the headset across the primary of the transformer of the first stage of amplification, the B-battery being connected and the tubes lighted as usual. Now, by talking into the headset, the loud speaker will repeat whatever is said. This is one way of "getting distance"; put the loud speaker in another room and have the folks listen in while you talk into the headset. It is then possible to make the loud speaker say "This is 2-LO, London, England," or announce the name of any distant station, when in reality the set may not be capable of receiving over a range of more than a few miles.

MISS HELEN M. KODET.

RAILROAD EMPLOYS GIRL AS PASSENGER REPRESENTATIVE

So far as known Miss Helen M. Kodet of Cleveland, O., is the only woman railroad passenger agent in the United States. She has been with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for a year soliciting patronage and conducting parties on tours about the country.

Miss Kodet says she first became interested in the work of "personally conducted tours" through going on one herself. Up to that time her work had been along secretarial lines in a law office. She found there was an opening with her present employers, and thinks now that there is no work so interesting as hers. The parties she conducts consist of from 25 to over 300 persons, and she takes them to all the eastern cities, to Yellowstone Park and to Florida.

MR. MERCHANT:

Have you ever thought of this?

YOU may be entertained by news of the Yanks and the Giants, but you are not vitally interested unless you have money at stake; and the shifting of European boundaries doesn't affect you half so much as the softness of your mattress, the comfort of your shoes, what you ate for breakfast, how much your last hat cost.

That's why advertising news deserves as much attention as sporting or international news. The advertisements keep you informed of all the latest comforts and conveniences that can make your daily living more delightful. They tell where to secure the best, how to save money, how to lessen work, have a better home, better food, better clothes, more luxuries.

You can't keep up with the daily news---the kind that affects you most ---unless you read the advertisements.

They are the chronometers of local time. You'll find it highly profitable to adjust your living by them.

Advertising is the only news that really saves you money--read them all. The wide-awake merchant has his own little story to tell in the Mail advertising columns.

The ceiling of the lobby is Old English style with amber glass lights hanging from it. A special feature of the lights of the windows is the installation of the new Lang's Daylight system, which gives a clear daylight effect.

The transoms above the doors are mitted glass, as well as the door in the center show case and the mirrored door leading to the apartment. The double entrance to the store is still another feature.
